Dear Parent/Carer

Birthday Bookworms

It was over 10 years ago that we launched an exciting new way to celebrate children's birthdays, called Birthday Bookworms. We share this in our reading assemblies with the children but thought we should share again with families.

Instead of your child bringing sweets and cakes into school on their birthday, why not donate a brand new book to the school or class library?

It could be their favourite storybook, or a book they find interesting. This can be shared with classmates and boost resources in school at the same time. Each week in the literacy assembly, all children celebrating a birthday will be congratulated. Children donating books will have the opportunity to show their book and a special sticker with their name will be placed in the front of it. These books will be enjoyed for years to come; we have books still being enjoyed in our classrooms from children who are now in their 20s!

Thank you for your continued support.
